analyzes the success of the reformed in the middle and southern states the success of the reformed of the middle and southern states at shaping a distinctly american ideology of the relationship of religion and government was truly amazing unlike their new england counterparts many of whom continued to enjoy some sort of establishment well into the nineteenth century these reformed entered the national experience with a backlog of experience in religious diversity and practical disestablishment and even in the south as religious dissenters they would have preferred a religious establishment that would have essentially recognized the validity of their understanding of christianity it was perhaps their own rigidity that caused them to fail in that attempt especially in virginia but for such a rigid people and they were rigid they demonstrated a remarkable flexibility when it became apparent that the american legal settlement would be one in which the state disengaged from the support of religion the reformed of the middle and southern states welcomed it and declared it to be the solution that would be most conducive to the spread and ultimate domination of reformed christianity unlike twentieth century liberals the reformed interpreted disestablishment as the legal and official recognition of the twin reformation doctrines of the priesthood of all believers and the absolute and unquestioned authority of the christian scriptures and to a very large degree it was their definition rather than the thinking of jefferson and madison that captured the imagination of the american people and became the dominant popular opinion in the land but perhaps of even greater significance the reformed of the middle and southern states forged an ideology that ultimately based american national prosperity on national adherence to reformed christianity under the tutelage of john witherspoon and samuel stanhope smith the reformed captured the enlightenment and brought it into the service of reformed christianity altering traditional calvinism in the process witherspoon and smith declaring that the truth of the law of nations could be devised by observation and reason alone propounded a doctrine of natural law and political science that substantially reinforced the calvinistic doctrine of providence in an era of skepticism and enlightenment all history they argued proved beyond any reasonable doubt that those nations that adhered to the moral principles taught by christianity had prospered and those that had taken a contrary route had fallen into ruin the reformed preachers of whatever denomination picked up this message and proclaimed it throughout the land the united states if it were to prosper was required to be a christian nation excerpt from the reformed reformation this work has been published to meet a desire by some of the ministers of the reformed church for more material on the reformed side of the reformation which they might use in the observance of the quarto centenary of the reformation we therefore give less space to the lutheran side of the reformation especially as the material on that side of the reformation is more abundant and besides the lutherans to their credit be it said have been exploiting luther more than the reformed have been doing for zwingli or calvin where we have treated of both sides of the reformation we have tried to give the lutheran side fairly but we have given the facts as they stand today we have no desire to minimize luther but to give him all due credit for the greatness of his work but luther is not the whole of the reformation and the reformed should receive their fair recognition we have also endeavored to utilize the latest discoveries in the history of the reformation and also the latest publications of and on that period this has placed somethings in a new light the reformed and presbyterian churches are especially interested in all this as they have come directly from zwingli through calvin and we trust that they will find this work helpful for the observance of this anniversary we only regret the shortness of time that we have had in which to prepare it so as to get it out before 1917 and we regret our inability on account of the war to get to zurich so as to get hold of more of the original sources though our own large library on the reformed church of switzerland has given much that this book may have a share however small in making this anniversary a great inspiration and blessing to our churches is the wish of the author about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
