this book is the second of two volumes that present the main results which emerged from the project cip computer aided intuition guided programming at the technical university of munich its central theme is program development by transformation a methodology which is becoming more and more important whereas volume i contains the description and formal specification of a wide spectrum language cip l particularly tailored to the needs of transformational programming volume ii serves a double purpose first it describes a system called cip s that is to assist a programmer in the method of transformational programming second it gives a non toy example for this very method since it contains a formal specification of the system core and transformational developments for the more interesting system routines based on a formal calculus of program transformations the informal requirements for the system are stated then the system core is formally specified using the algebraic data types and the pre algorithmic logical constructs of the wide spectrum language cip l it is demonstrated how executable procedural level programs can be developed from this specification according to formal rules the extensive collection of these rules is also contained in the book it can be used as the basis for further developments using this method since the system has been designed in such a way that it is parameterized with the concrete programming language to be transformed the book also contains a guide how to actualize this parameter the proceeding is exemplified with a small subset of cip l there are five marked quotations from psalms in the gospel of matthew these are 1 ps 91 1 12 in matt 4 6 2 ps 78 2 in matt 13 35 3 ps 8 3 in matt 21 16 4 ps 118 22 23 in matt 21 42 and 5 ps 110 1 in matt 22 44 piotr herok argues that the investigated texts are related to each other not only by the presence of the introductory formulas making clear that a given citation comes from scripture but also through mutual thematic convergence concerning in various degrees king david the temple and the theme of jesus identity thanks to the new literary context in which the quotations are embedded matthew reinterprets them significantly while giving them a new dimension clearly distinguishing them from the rest of the psalm quotations found in his work this aims at presenting jesus as not only the son of david but first of all the son of god different components of grammar interact in non trivial ways it has been under debate what the actual range of interaction is and how we can most appropriately represent this in grammatical theory the volume provides a general overview of various topics in the linguistics of romance languages by examining them through the interaction of grammatical components and functions as a state of the art report but at the same time as a manual of romance languages this study attempts to analyse the text of hebrews with a method of discourse analysis primarily based on a form of systemic functional linguistics developed for hellenistic greek but it is also informed by other linguistic studies it begins with a general survey of the literature that is either influential or representative of approaches to the structure of hebrews the survey is followed by an introduction to the terminology and definitions of discourse analysis as well as the theory behind the methodology and describes a procedure for analysing text hebrews is treated as having three sections the first section of hebrews 1 1 4 16 demonstrates the organization of the units the topic of the units the prominent text and the relationship of the first section with the rest of the discourse the second section of hebrews 4 11 10 25 is described in two parts 4 11 7 28 and 8 1 10 25 because of its length there is an overlap between the first and second sections in 4 11 16 and between the second and third sections in 10 19 25 both of these passages have a concluding function for the preceding co text and a staging function for the following co text so that they look backwards and forwards the third and final section in 10 19 13 25 contains the climax or discourse peak the study is concluded with a description of the coherence of the discourse and a presentation of a mental representation of the text jsnts and studies in new testament greek subseries
